Safeguarding vulnerable people and children from extremism

This workshop is about safeguarding people and communities from the threat which may be posed by extremists. The workshop will enable you to recognise when a person or child may be being targeted and groomed for radicalisation and to know how to refer them for supportive intervention.

This training is for front line staff working with children or adults

This training will enable you to:

- Understand how people can be influenced or radicalised
- Be aware of vulnerability factors which may indicate a person is being targeted and groomed for radicalisation
- Know how to share concerns about people vulnerable to radicalisation and how to refer for supportive intervention
